HERE'S BONNIE AND WINNIE. They are littermates who have never been separated and only with one owner. Sadly, their senior mom is going into assisted living and can't take them with her. They have been loved and well treated, as best a senior can do…but she never gave them shots, had them spayed, put on a collar, walked them on a leash and were rarely taken outside!! They are potty pad trained…and now, they walk pretty well on a leash, the collars are on, they've been vaccinated, microchipped and spayed and they are healthy as can be!

BONNIE is a bundle of energy! At 4 yrs old, she is a 13 lb, black and white soft scruffy DoxiPoo, as best as we can tell. She doesn't seem to shed much, but unlikely hypoallergenic. She is the leader and gets uber excited when she sees you! will give you a bath with her tongue if you let her — she loves to show her person how much she appreciates them and cuddle, cuddle, cuddle. One belly rub and she is yours! WINNIE is just 9.5 lbs, tan in color and also a DoxiPoo. She is not scruffy like her sister - her coat is soft and silkier. The more gentle of the two, she is a bit on the timid side at first - but don't let that fool you! She gets equally excited to see you and kiss you — just less demonstrative than her sister. Winnie is a bit on the fearful side and not as outgoing as Bonnie initially, but this is all very new to them. practice and patience, we believe they will be model citizens. They are just learning what toys are!! A bundle of fun!

The ideal home for these lovebugs will have a yard to make their potty training easier on their family. They don't like being left alone! When they first arrived, they howled if I wasn't around, but now that they feel safe, they are very quiet most of the time. They would love to play with kids over 8 yrs old! They are very smart and quiet when you say quiet, and stay when you say stay. Learned the leash in a day. Still, we don't think an apartment would be the best for them. They need to know they are loved and in their forever home, and lots of attention and opportunities to experience the world around them. Their balanced energy is the perfect match...Winnie would love to stay and sit on your lap, while Bonnie goes running with a family member!
