THIS IS NORI...a little angel who undoubtedly fell from heaven right into the care of Lhasa Happy Homes. This 10 lb, soft and silky (but does shed just a tad), gold/white, 5-6 yr old Shih Tzu, Pomeranian, Maltese mix was turned into the shelter because her owner could no longer afford the number of dogs she had. While Nori was matted, you can see our groomer was able to brush her out. By her demeanor, we are sure she was loved...but we think she might have had to fight for it, because we've learned she really doesn't like other dogs. Perhaps it was not the best life – but this little girl is so sweet, loving and kissy, she was loved as best her mom could do. Even though she was part of a big pack of dogs, Nori has decided that she would prefer living in a home where she gets all the attention. She is not aggressive towards dogs on the street, although she will bark at them, but at home, she wants to be your only girl. Nori seems to be potty trained, but no guarantees. She might be good with an older, bigger dog, but she would have to make that decision!

If you have room in your life to love and dote on a little sweetheart deserving of a wonderful life, Nori is waiting.
