THIS IS PADDINGTON BEAR...and a cuter, sweeter, happier dog you will never find! This 18 mo-2 yr old, tri colored, 11 lb, Lhasa Tzu was given a bad rap at the SEAACA Shelter because when he was brought in, he was terrified. He snapped at the person who grabbed him off the street and got labeled aggressive. The only thing we've seen Mr. Paddington bite is his food with delight...or a toy he wants to play with! When he first arrived, he was extremely sick with pneumonia...but once he recovered, he was on the move!! He is silly when strangers are approaching, as he has this low, subtle bark that sometimes comes out and sometimes it stays low! He is very active and loves to play, so another playful dog must be in his future...but because he did snap at a stranger when picked up, we think no kids! Mr. Paddington Bear is a lover who will kiss you until the cows come home! He will need some work on his potty training! He is smart, he listens and wants to please. This boy is a gem and just looking at his picture should tell you that much! Cuter, you will never find! Can you handle so much cuteness?
